Bio:

Red Temples are that friend you haven't caught up with in ages. Blending rock, soul, blues and reggae into a sound immediately familiar yet all their own, their songs are built from the stories and melodies of the everyday.

A collective approach to song writing sees the group journey to the cross-roads of wide-ranging musical influences, dark humour and dubious life choices. The five-piece are revelling in bringing their songs to a wider audience, lighting up the scene with their energetic and spirited live shows.

Come to the Temple door, let yourself in, and see what's on the other side.
